5 South Dakota Farm Bureau

Farmers and ranchers

are two percent of the United States population.

The overwhelming majority of Americans today are generations removed from the farm or ranch. Those involved in agriculture have to work harder than in the past to make our case to lawmakers, regulators, the media and the public. South Dakota Farm Bureau helps us have a voice in the conversation and a seat at the table when decisions are made directly affecting our ability to operate.

The conversations that move agriculture forward.

That connect, share and engage. It's what South Dakota Farm Bureau has done for 100 years!

We cultivate understanding and appreciation. Engage with folks who want to know more. We pursue and implement policy, making sure your voice is heard and safe and affordable food is on your families table. Our farmers and ranchers care for the land. On average, one American farm produces enough food to feed 155 people. It's advocacy. A respected voice in the conversation. And a hand in the outcome.

South Dakota Farm Bureau helps you address concerns and solve problems.

As South Dakota Farm Bureau members you have a built in system of support to bring up concerns that impact you! Our policy development process starts at the local county level giving you the opportunity to directly contribute to what South Dakota Farm Bureau is advocating for in Pierre and Washington, D.C.

A membership in South Dakota Farm Bureau a good "insurance" for you and your family's future.

You wouldn't risk going without insurance, so why leave your family's future to chance? The $50 annual dues to South Dakota Farm Bureau (or $135 for a 3-year membership) are a very affordable way to make sure there is a group representing your family's way of life.

South Dakota Farm Bureau members receive hundreds of money-saving member benefits.

In addition to access to great insurance coverage from Farm Bureau Financial Services, South Dakota Farm Bureau members receive discounts on a whole range of items. By taking advantage of just a few of those benefits, your membership dues will be covered!
